

“I’ve got some great war stories. Some even involve a real war.”

AR Modular RF*

Customers call all the time with impossible requests. They need new amplifiers custom configured and delivered yesterday. Or they need a huge quantity of modules manufactured in no time. So we go into full “Battle” mode and pull out all the stops. And usually, we meet their impossible deadlines.

But nothing made me prouder than when we were able to do the impossible for the US troops in Iraq. We got a request near the beginning of “Operation Enduring Freedom.” They needed 32 amplifiers to set up communication links in Iraq. It was right in the middle of the holiday season; but they needed those amplifiers immediately. Lives depended on it. We pulled together, some people came in on their vacation days; and we produced those amps and shipped them to the troops with lightning speed.

We’ll do whatever it takes to support our customers... all our customers! Of course, some jobs are a little more critical than others.
